

NEOLOGISTICA SRL

TECHNOLOGICAL INNOVATION, FLEXIBLE AUTOMATION

Neologistica is strongly specialized in warehousing and freight distribution on pharmaceutical, chemical and cosmetic domestic market. Its aim is to offer to customers real competitive advantages. The company can offer integrated services for warehousing, transports, packaging, help desk, customer service, complete on-line traceability, inventory management, interfacing to customer's and courier's system, in order to build the most suitable package to meet customers' need. We can reach pharmacies directly, handling with high quality the strong complexity related to direct orders, handle with high flexibility the variability of volumes and peak workloads and keep a complete traceability and visibility of orders status, even through the use of RFID technology that allows the easy, fast and safe identification of products. The new site in Origgio was designed with three objectives: having "flexible automation", ensure high standards of safety and security and achieve energy savings. The system is based on the "goods to the operator" concept: traditional procedures are reversed and a higher level of automation is offered. Showing directly the implementation of these services is the best presentation we can offer.
